THE much-injured Mr. Dibble has only had five months to get his testimony in. He ought to have until March 4, 1883.

THE later attitude of Mr. Stephens causes a grave apprehension in Republican circles that Georgia may go Demoeratic. It is some comfort to be able to believe that he could have been easily elected as the Independent candidate. The fact that the Bourbons take him because they are obliged to is also a pleasant reflection.

Ir was harrowing to the better feelings of one's nature to hear that excellent man, Abram Hewitt, so touchingly deprecate the partisan conduct of the Republicans yesterday. Ever since he backed up the Morey letter forgery he has been dead set against anything that looked like a party advantage. There is a divinity that shapes the end of the Democratic party, rough how it as they

THE innocent Republican who wonders how such sound Republicans and honorable gentlemen as Messra, Wait, Ritchie, and Miller, of the House of Representatives, can be so wicked as to stand by forgery in the Mackey case, as they are charged with doing by the Democratic papers, will find the mystery solved if they will just recall the ease with which those papers always lie when necessary to bolster up their bad cause.

THE Republican party can ask no better efore the country than that afforded by the Bourbon enemy in the House by their filibustering tactics to prevent a vote on contested election cases. If the country cannot be aroused to indignation at the avowed determination of the Democrats to allow no vote on the right of members to their seats, then representative government is at an end, and governors of States may seat in Congress whoever they choose to grant certificates to.

THE check-stamp tax is a nuisance and should be abolished. It is a tax upon | Weed? the individual who draws a check, and does not come out of the rich banking institutions and corporations, as some persons pretend. It is inconvenient, at times embarrassing, and very often ignored, which is unjust to those who do pay it. Let this petty annoyance be done away at once. The revenues of the country are large enough without continuing this repulsive and annoying system of personal tax.

THE letter of declination of Mr. Marshall, Republican nominee for Congressman-at-Large in Pennsylvania, contains the following thrust at the change made in the New York custom-house last year: It is a mockery of common business sense to dis-place tried and faithful public servants in order to provide places for hungry applicants who may prove as worthless as they are voraclous. No sand min so acts in his private affairs. It is equally repagnant to sound economy in the administra-tion of public interests. The use of public patron-age to control or direct the people in their choice of candidates for office is a grave political crime It subverts the principles of representative gov-ernment, and tends to make of the servant a master, to the common debasement of the people.

THE facts that the Bourbons of the House of Representatives must meet in the Mackey-Dibble contested election case are as follows: At the single polling place of Haut Gap Mackey had 1,037 votes and O'Connor 46. This was according to the count of the Democratic managers of the precinct. The county canvassers of Charleston County feloniously changed these figures, and falsely returned the vote as having been only 19 for Mackey and 1,052 for O'Connor. What pretense is there that this is altered testimony? A Republican candidate for Congress receiving 1,037 votes in this matter. according to the count of Democratic election officers, and being cheated out of the misfortune of civil-service reform to all but 19 of them by another Democratic fall into the hands of bad managers. The erew; 46 votes for the Democratic candidate, as counted by his own friends, coolly increased to 1,052 by the county fathers, was honest in his purposes, but canvassers, because it was necessary in so incapable of great business affairs that prider to count him in! Not only was this done, but the votes of eleven which the fortunes of his friends were polling places were thrown out alto-gether, contrary to law, because, ac-graphic to the country of Democratic alea.

If the public business were no better cording to the count of Democratic eleccording to the count of Democratic elec-tion officers, they gave the Republican reformer manages his concerns we should candidate 5,022 votes against 895 for his be in a desperately bad way. The au-Democratic opponent. This action has there of and sponsor for the original civil-Democratic opponent. This action has been pronounced unlawful by the Demo-cratic supreme court of South Carolina. service bill swamped the fortunes of widows and orphans in a business venture resembling Colonel Sellers's eye-water There is no charge that this is altered scheme, and he was one of the best of the Penusylvania All Right.

The office-seekers' convention at Phila delphia was a laughable failure. Nobody wanted its nominations, except Merrick, BOURBON TACTICS IN THE HOUSE that ferocious postmaster of Wellsboro'. He wanted three different ones. He commenced at the head and failed until the last. He finally got atail-hold ascandidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Mc-Veagh, Agnew, Shiras—all deserted. Senator Mitchell found himself the manager of a strolling company with a play that would not draw. He will slowly realize the fact that a failure to get offices for his friends is not an exciting cause of public indignation. Poor Wolfe could not get through his motion to call the bolters the "Garfield Republican party," So he subsided, the lights were turned out, and all went to their homes sadder if not wiser men.

The Mackey Case. The public mind has been confused by a great uproar over an allegation of alteration of the testimony in the Mackey case. This charge has been thoroughly investigated and pronounced absolutely false by the Republican members of the committee. Mr. Dibble was given a full hearing, and a day longer than he asked. He was met and overthrown. After the hearing, and the decision exonerating Mr. Mackey from the charge made, Mr. Dibble came with another affidavit, and demanded to go all over with it sgain. This dildavit was merely a repetition of what had gone before, and the name attached to it was that of a man who could neither read nor write! For three months the Democrats had dragged the case along, making one pretext after another for delay. There is no merit in the present demand for further inquiry. If every allegation of Mr. Dibble's ex parte affidavits were admitted as true, which they are not, it would not affect the case an lota.

Hark, from the Tombs!

The Whip and its boss may go over to Arthur's Kitchen Cabinet if they choose, but what right has it or Mahone to declare that they are going to take you over, body and soul, to a radical Republican dualnistration?—Purson Massey's specch.

The dear old soul was awfully fond of negro company when he was elected auditor with their votes, but now that he has lost his grip he is floundering about in the mire, shouting about "Radicals." He is the laughing stock of the State of Virginia. The Bourbons use him for the Jumbo of their circus, and he thinks he is the manager.

THE Republican members of the House Committee on Elections are honorable gentlemen and good lawyers. They have almost denied justice to Mackey, the South Carolina contestant, in the effort to demonstrate their fairness to the side of their political opponents. The felonious alterations of some returns and the criminal rejection of others are clearly and unmistakably proven. By restoring the original figures made by Democratic election managers, Mackey has 876 majority. This makes no account of the cheating by local managers throughout the State. If they were considered, Mackey's majority would be 9,000. If the Republican party does not stamp out such outrages, and force a vote after fair debate on each of the contested election cases, it will deserve the fate which would await such pusillanimity. A refusal or failure by the Republican House to compel a decision upon the right of the people to be represented by the men they have elected would end the career of the party, as it ought to do.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ir is not supposed that either Book-walter or Beltzhoover will decline the second place on the Democratic ticket for 1884.

GOVERNOR PLAISTED, of Maine, has succeeded in developing more demagogue to the square foot than any other politician of our day. He is right, however, in his conclusion that it "is not necessary that I should be elected next fall." Such a consummation would not come under the head either of necessities or luxuries.

The country Democratic organs are full of predictions of stupendous things that are to happen when the Congressional Executive Committee gets the old party ready for her summer campaign. We are led to expect that she will steam into the fray with a neat but not gaudy outfit, her coal-bunkers nickel-plated and her smoke-stack painted sky-blue.

FILIBUSTERING

Delaying the Business of the Session in the Mackey O'Connor Confest-A Scene of Confusion-Disgraceful Action of Democrats -A Member Faints.

When the House met vesterday Mr. Calkins ros to a question of personal privilege, and sent to the Clork's desk and had read that partion of the letter written by Mr. Hewitt, of New York, to Mr. Maning, which charges that the Committee on Elec-ions refused to Investigate the charges of forgery preferred before that committee. Mr. Randall contended that the letter falled to thow that the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Cal-dos) had been alluded to in any relation, The Speaker ruled that the matter did present a cestion of privilege. Mr. Calkins then stated that as long as the charges against the committee were confined to the news-papers he had not noticed them; but when they were made by a member of Congress, it was a re lection on every member of the committee. Probably it was not so intended by the gentleman (Mr. Hewlitt, but nevertheless it was a reflection which ought to be refuted at once. The Committee or# Elections had never failed to inquire into the truth of any charge made before it.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED.

A long and noisy discussion then arose as to the action of the committee, Mr. Atherton claiming that it had refused to investigate the charges of action of the committee, Mr. Atherton claiming that it had refused to investigate the charges of forgery, and Mr. Calkins denying that statement. Note these gentlemen were frank in their statements and proceeded in perfect enhances and good temper, but a great number of members on both sides were excited and their interpolations into the debase rate of such great confusion that it was next to impossible to understand the points made by the principal debaters.

The House was amusually full and nearly all the members were on their feet, many of them speaking at once. The confusion increased as time passed, and at 12 o'clock the House was in an upror, which only abated when Mr. Cakins demanded of his friends that in a spirit of fairness Mr. Atherton should be allowed to take the floor. Mr. Reagan, however, objected.

Then Mr. Dibbie arcse to a question of privilege, but, his opening a marks failing to present such a question, objection was made to his proceeding. Mr. Hewite, of New York, then took the floor with another question of privilege. He disclaimed any intention of making an unjust charge against any member of the Committee on Elections, and stated that in writing the letter which had given rise to the debate he had based its declarations on the minority report, the peution of Mr. Dibbie, and the assertions of the Democratic members of the committee. As one of the Sundadions for his letter Mr. Hewitt desired to have read the affidavit of C. Smith, United States supervisor of elections.

Mr. Reed objected to this on the ground that it was not fair for the bemocratic members of the committee way what they did not dare to discuss in a direct way. That was the trouble is, I have some right on this floor, and I will assert my privileges in my own way.

The Speaker ruled that the affidavit might be read. It simply charges interlineations, erasures, and omissions in the testimony taken in the contest between Mackey and O'Connor.

Mr. Cakins then reviewed briefly the evidence in the case, and read affidavits in explanation and denial of that filled by C. Smith, and his presentation of the facts on which the majority of the committee relied chiefued several rounds of applane from his party friends. In conclusion he said:

"It is said that the Democratic party is justified in its libustering because some testimony is questioned. If the Democratic party an stand on such a footing we can afford to stand on the great constitutional right (which for minety-three years has never before been questioned) of determining by a majority vote of this House who is entitled to a seat in this chamber."

The matter was dropped, and Mr. Calkins called up the contested election case.

FILIBUSTERING TACTICS. Mr. Randall raised the question of consideration; and, pending that, moved that when the House adjourn it be to meet on Friday next.

The vote resulted—yeas, I (Mr. Phelps); nays, 145—three less than a quorum. The Republicans absent on this vote were Mesers, Bingham, Camp, Houk, Lindsey, Mascn, McCold, Scranton, Sherwin, Valentine, Van Aernam, West, W. A. Wood, and Young. ad Young. A call of the House was then ordered, but the

A MEMBER FALLS IN A FIT.

During the roll-call on a dilatory motion Mr.

Walker, who was standing in the rear of the members' s-ask, fell in a fainting fit, and was laid upon one of the sofas. There was some excitement in the House, which was allayed, however, when it was announced that Mr. Walker was suffering simply from a slight attack of vertigo. He was in a few moments conveyed to the Speaker's room, and the doors of the galakries were ordered to be opened in order that some freah air migrat be ad-opened in order that some freah air might be admitted to the chamber.

Mr. Kenna moved that when the House adjourn it be to meet on Saturday, which motion Mr. Randall moved to amend by substituting Friday. On this vote the Republicans lost their quorum, the result being—yeas, it mays 149; and a call of the House was ordered, and the doors were closed.

Mr. Walker recovered in time to answer to his mane on this call.

Matters then remained in state quo for about an hour and a half. The Sergeant-at-Arms was not disparched after absent members, and those present killed time, as well as they were able, in conversation and reading until 5 e clock, when Mr. Galkins, stating that he would call up the election case Taursday, and satising members to bring five days' rations with them, moved to adjourn. The motion was agreed to, and the House at 5 o'clock adjourned until Thursday.

Mr. Slater reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs an original bill appropriating $5,400 for the relief of Mrs. Louiss Boddy, of Lake County, Oregon, widow of a victim of the Modoe Indian massacre. The committee, in their report, concur in regarding this as an exception to the usual class of claims for Indian depredations, because the outbreak was the result of an unsuccessful offensive movement by the United States troops for the purpose of confining the Modoes to their reservation, and was without notice by the United States authorities. The bill went to the calendar.

Under the order for the calcular, the Senate took up the Senate bill for the relief of the officers and crew of the United States steamer Monitor who participated in the action with the robel fron-east Merrimac, in March, 1862. The amount in the actual value of the Merrimac at the date of the action, not exceeding $236,036.

After a long discussion the bill passed—yeas, 21; nays, 23.
Messa, Windom and Hoar, upon requests made by them, were relieved from service on the Committees on Patents and Rules respectively, and the chair was authorized to fill the vacancies thus created, as also those occasioned by the resignation of ex-Sanator Teller.

The District of Columbia water supply bill was then taken up, discussed, and passed by a viva vocc voto; and the Japanese indemnity fund bill was taken up and placed on the orders as unfinished business.

Committee appointments to fill vacancies were announced by the Chair as follows: On Judiciary, Mr. Hoar on Panelous, Claims, and Epidemic Diseases, Mr. Chilcott; on Patents, Mr. Lapham; on Raifreads, Mr. Windom; on Rules, Mr. Harrison.
